PERSONAL RESEARCH GRANTS, FELLOWSHIPS, AND CONTRACTS

National Defense Foreign Language Fellow, Stanford University, 1969-1971.

Center for East Asian Studies Grant (summer), Stanford, 1971.

Stanford University Fellow, 1971-1972.

Fulbright Fellow (Hong Kong), dissertation research, 1972-1973.

Mabelle McLeod Lewis Grant (summer), 1973.

Macy Post-doctoral Fellow, University of Michigan's Center for Chinese Studies, Ann Arbor, MI.

Ohio State University, University Small Research Grant, 1975-1976.

Mid-West Universities Consortium for International Activities, Travel Grant, summer 1976.

Asia Society, funding for Ohio Regional China Council, 1978-1981--institutional support, not for personal activities.

Central Intelligence Agency, 1978-1981, funding for research on China's emerging elite.

The Johnson Foundation, Racine, WI and Ohio State University's Mershon Center agreed to jointly fund a conference John Lewis at Stanford University and I convened on weapons sales and technology transfers to China, March 5-6, 1981.

Faculty Fellow, Ohio State University, in OSU-Wuhan University Exchange Program, 1982. For the same period, I also was selected to participate in the National Program for Advanced Study and Research in China under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences' Committee on Scholarly Communication with the People's Republic of China.

Recipient, SSRC-ACLS Joint Committee and Mershon Center funding for workshop on "Studies in Policy Implementation in Post-Mao China," June 20-24, 1983, Columbus, OH.

Recipient (with Kenneth Lieberthal) of ACLS-SSRC Conference grant on the topic of "The Structure of Authority and Bureaucratic Politics in China," held at Westward Look in Tucson, Arizona, June 19-23, 1988.

From January 1988 to November 1997, a principal job of mine was securing grants for the National Committee.

Recipient of Smith-Richardson Foundation grant for Project on Foreign Policy and National Security

Decisionmaking in China in the Era of Reform (grant period 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001).

Inaugural winner of the Scalapino Prize, which carried with it Award of $50,000, awarded by the National Bureau of Asian Research and the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, June-2010.

Recipient Resident Fellowship, Rockefeller Foundation, Bellagio Center, for period May-June 2011.

Designation as a Johns Hopkins "Gilman Scholar" that carries with it a five-year grant.

I also was instrumental (along with Dean Jessica Einhorn during her tenure as Dean of SAIS) in bringing foundation grants to Johns Hopkins-SAIS for student fellowship support (the Freeman Foundation and the Starr Foundation, totaling at least $6 million), for support of the Institute of International Research at the Hopkins-Nanjing Center, Nanjing, China (the Ford Foundation and Luce Foundation), with the joint efforts of Paula Burger, the Hopkins-Nanjing Program Office, and the Johns Hopkins University Development Office in the 1998-present period. In 2010, I was part of the team that won a $10 million grant for creation of the Yeung Center at Johns Hopkins to promote Sino-American-related research and collaboration, an effort initiated and led by Johns Hopkins President Ron Daniels and Provost Lloyd Minor.

At The Nixon Center (later name changed to The Center for the National Interest), I was the principal investigator on two grants from the Institute for Peace in Washington, D.C. in the 1998-2006 period.
